Synopsis

Fâ™k Cancer â “ Coping & Coloring!by Cynthia Van Edwards(AGES 1â ”100) 60+ Coloring Pages! Cancer isnâ™t something that we can ignore. Whether youâ™ve been close to somebody who has dealt with cancer, or youâ™ve personally had to face this disease, you know the powerful effect it can have on victims and their families. This coloring book was designed as a way to let some of the angst and stress channel into creativity instead of sadness and depression. Itâ™s easy to get really angry sometimesâ | so we start coloring and it worksâ |it truly helps us. This coloring book is a mixture between transcendental imagery and some of the many thoughts that we might experience after coming into contact with Cancer in one of its many forms. Itâ™s beneficial to express your emotions through colors because, many times, words just wonâ™t suffice. One minute you could feel despair and remorse or sorrowâ | and suddenly rage and anger take over. We want you to find peace and tranquility.

CYNTHIAâ™S PERSONAL RANT: I want to tell you how I feel about Cancer, and the haphazard way in which the medical community seems to deal with it. I'm not a politician, nor a pharmaceutical lobbyist. I donâ™t own stock in any of those companies, I donâ™t picket, and I havenâ™t once thrown tomatoes during a public speech. That being said, the lack of enthusiasm in dealing with Cancer, on a global level â “ is appalling. Â We put humans on the Moon. We have rovers on Mars. We found the Titanic, located sea creatures that were thought to be extinct, and we know, with a very small margin of error, that the universe is about 13.7 billion years old. We understand the inner workings of a black hole, and we can split the atom (and even break the little bits that make an atom into smaller bits). Â We humans can do anything we put our minds to. Â We found a terrorist 10,000 miles away, hiding in a closet. We found the head of lettuce that had e.Coli bacteriaâ | from space! Why the fâ™k canâ™t we find a cure for cancer?Â Or safer medicines for Cancer Victims?Â Or a better support system and Recovery programs for Cancer patients and their families and friends? This makes me really angry. This is what inspired the book. A close friend of ours recently got diagnosed with a very aggressive form of cancer. She fought like hell to battle it. Instead of feeling sad and giving up, she got angry, told cancer to â “Step-offâ™ and she waged a battle that is still going on. She is turning the tide, beating the cancer back BECAUSE she decided to wage all out war against the disease. So thatâ™s the point of this book. Letâ™s wage all out, fâ™ing jihad on Cancer. Letâ™s scream and rage and kick and punch! Letâ™s make people aware. Letâ™s force research forward. Nobody on this planet should have to die of this disease if we really come together and fight like hell to eradicate it. Better early warning indicators. Better and safer treatments. Faster recovery systems and techniques. This is all possible. Now, can we do this overnightâ | no. But then, when Kennedy said âœWeâ™re putting men on the Moon, it happened. Not in 20 years, but in a few quick years. Letâ™s do this, people. Letâ™s Fâ™k Cancer out of existence! This book has been a collaborative effort between artists, designers, and psychologists. This book not only soothes you, but also increases mental stimulation. The pictures and designs may seem random at first glance, but theyâ™re anything but. We hope to give the designer (you) a very introspective and mind expanding experience. PLEASE: Take pictures of your finished coloring designs and post them to CYNTHIA VAN EDWARDâ™s Facebook page, add the hashtag #FkCancerColoringBook to your post

I have been lucky enough to preview this amazing colouring book about Cancer, prior to its' release. It is an amazing book full of beautiful images and phrases... ranging from pages that make you feel many different emotions.... hope, rage, faith and love to name a few. My 10 year old daughter and I have loved colouring pages from this book, which I will definately be displaying at the Oncology ward I work at in a Brisbane hospital. I have no doubt that the patients I see every day, who continue to amaze me with their courage, bravery and strength while battling this terrible disease called cancer, will love and appreciate the wonderful messages of hope and wisdom portrayed in Cynthia's remarkable pages. If you have cancer, know someone who has cancer, or just want to support this wonderful idea, then this is the book for you. Below is a poem I wrote about Cancer, after being inspired by this wonderful book. Aaaaarrgh! Cancer Sucks! There is no rhyme or reason, It can come right out of the blue, This ugly sickness growing inside of us, Often we don't even have a clue. It's so unfair! Such rotten bad luck! What did I do to deserve this? Aaaaarrgh! Cancer sucks! One day you feel completely fine, Then it's like a punch to the gut, When the doctor tells you "You have cancer", You feel like you have been run over by a truck. It's so unfair! Such rotten bad luck! What did I do to deserve this? Aaaaarrgh! Cancer sucks! You try to have hope, And you try to stay strong, But some days are harder than others, And you wonder how you will ever go on? It's so unfair! Such rotten bad luck!

You live your life day by day, Never thinking you could be next, Never thinking it can happen to you, Never thinking it could happen to somebody that is a very important part of your life. The news will come sudden and you can never be prepared to hear the doctor's diagnosis. Once they tell you what's going on in detail, you pray and you hope that it isn't true. You go from doctor to doctor because you feel it isn't true. Then in the end you have them do everything they can to keep your loved one alive. It's scary, no doubt about it. Sometimes it's slow and sometimes it's quick. You pray for more time but in the back of your head you know that at any given moment they could be gone and better yet you pray that it will be okay and they will make it through. You try not to let it consume you, they tell you to prepare yourself for a long road as a family member all you get to do is watch but how could you just sit there and watch? Without being able to do anything or help. It makes you feel useless but you try to help the best you can. Sometimes everything starts to fall apart - when it's happening to the person who is the foundation of your family, the glue holding everyone together, the roots of the tree sprouting branches in all directions. For my family it was my grandfather. Even though they tell you they're prepared when they know it's close to the end and they're ready to move on - it doesn't make it easier for anyone and you live with the uncertainty of thinking if deep down they weren't prepared and ready to leave everything as it is after a long road of fighting.
